

Learning & Teaching

Call for Applications for the MTLT Fellows Program

Have you presented at an NCTM meeting? Are you interested in sharing your presentation ideas with a broader audience in the form of a journal article? Would writing for a journal be a new endeavor for you? If you can answer yes to these three questions, MTLT has just the opportunity for you!

The MTLT Fellows program, established in 2021, consists of a series of training sessions that guide new journal authors in developing a manuscript for journal submission, receiving and responding to feedback on a manuscript draft(s), and submitting a vetted manuscript for potential publication in MTLT.

The primary goal of the program is to support teachers and educators who have presented at an NCTM annual meeting or state conference and who wish to contribute an article to MTLT but have not published in a journal before.

Applications for the 2025 Fellows program are being accepted through March 15, 2025.

HOW TO APPLY

1. Email your application for the Fellows program to mtlt@nctm.org.
2. An application consists of the following:
 - a. A letter describing the meeting at which you presented and the meeting date; your presentation's title and a short summary of the main highlights; and a short explanation of your interest in the Fellows program.
 - b. The slide deck of your presentation. If the file is too large for email (>10 mb), please contact mtlt@nctm.org for Dropbox information.

If you have any questions, please contact the editorial office at mtlt@nctm.org.